Thank You
from all the brothers

Brother Robert Fillmore, C.S.C.
Provincial Superior

Although we may not think of it this way, generosity is the key to happiness. We gradually learn this lesson over a lifetime - some of us learn faster than others.

In the popular comic strip “Peanuts,” Lucy asks Charlie Brown, “Why are we here on earth?” He replies, “To make others happy.” It is reported that William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, was scheduled to make a major address to an international convention of Salvation Army workers but was unable to attend. When asked to send a message, he sent only one word: Others.

As I travel to attend various receptions at our schools to introduce our capital campaign and to identify the needs of our brothers, frequently I hear our alumni comment that our request for help makes sense. Dedication and generosity were lessons they learned from the example of their brother teachers - you are expected to give back to the community.

The list of benefactors contained in this edition is a testimony that many alumni and friends understand the importance of giving back. The cliché “What comes around goes around!” says it well. When our alumni and friends were in need the brothers responded generously and this made all the difference. Now the brothers are in need and a response from those they have helped will make the difference.

To those of you who have given and continue to give out of a spirit of generosity and dedication, I say, “Thank You” from all the Brothers.

I pray that as you put your head on the pillow each night you will know the peace and satisfaction that comes when you have shared what you have been given with the brothers and with others who are in need.

To those of you who have given and continue to give out of a spirit of generosity and dedication,
I say, “Thank You”
from all the brothers.

Brothers

Honoring Lives of faith

Jerome B. Kearns,
Director of Development

Honoring Lives of Faith – Securing the Future's Promise, our recently announced capital campaign, is progressing in a very positive and fruitful manner. This campaign represents the first broad based appeal of the Brothers in their 164 years of service in this country. Our goal is $25 million! Contributions will be used to provide adequate healthcare for our aging and infirm Brothers together with a dignified retirement for those who are no longer able to work. The funds will also be used to foster vocations and recruit and train young men to continue the work of the Brothers of Holy Cross.

This campaign is necessary, in part, because, until recently, the Brothers did not receive a salary, other than basic room and board. All the money the Brothers would have received was returned to the institutions as contributed services to improve the physical facilities, enhance curriculums and provide competitive salaries for lay teachers and administrators.

More importantly, the Brothers did not receive a salary so that tuition could remain low and affordable allowing anyone who wanted a Catholic education to receive it.

The generosity of our benefactors over the years sustains us in our ministry of educating the minds and hearts of our young people, counseling youth and troubled families, securing vocations for our future and caring for our aged and infirm Brothers.

This issue of Brothers represents our first public acknowledgement of donors to the Brothers of Holy Cross over the past ten years. These individuals, corporations and foundations have sustained us in our work and provided the resources necessary for support, facilities and staff to continue our mission. You'll note that many of our most generous benefactors are our own Brothers. Because they profess the vow of poverty, Brothers are not permitted to use inherited assets for their personal benefit. Therefore, many have chosen to bequeath these assets to the community.

Our deepest thanks and gratitude are extended to those listed for their generosity and support. Our daily prayers are with them and all benefactors of the Brothers' many ministries.
